

ICRP Newsletter - Oct 2024

Chairman's Brief

Just a short time until actual election day. I know we have an election month in WA state and that tends to distort and insinuate that our elections are not great, but I believe we need to participate in any way we can regardless. We can't make it better from the sidelines! So this is a short message but an important one. VOTE, VOTE, VOTE! FIGHT, FIGHT, FIGHT! and get everyone you know to do the same!

Timothy S Hazelo (USN Ret)
Chairman ICRP

Message from the editor

Well, we are down to the nitty gritty for this election cycle. Lots of work to do, messaging to the people who will listen and securing votes for the candidates who will serve us best. That would be all the Republicans along with Dave Larson for State Supreme Court and David Olson for OSPI in case this was a mystery to anyone who reads this newsletter.

Am I in love with all of the candidates? Nope. Still gonna vote for them because they are better than the alternative and I do love some of them.

After the election there is much work to do getting ready for the next round.

Find all the details in the content that follows.

To help with your plan to attend the next set of Central Committee meetings, here are the dates and locations:

Nov 2nd: Deer Lagoon Grange #846, 5142 Bayview Rd, Langley
Dec 7th: Elks Club, 155 NE Ernst St, Oak Harbor (Big and important)
Jan 4th: 8820 Viking Way, Stanwood

The first thing the ICRP Central Committee will be focused on is the December reorganization meeting:

Dec 7th: Elks Club, 155 NE Ernst St, Oak Harbor

First up will be the Election of Executive Board Officers: Chair, Vice-Chair, Committeeman, Committeewoman.

To set up for this there is a Nominating Committee that is talking to folks who are interested in serving on the Executive Board. If you are one of those people, contact Kent Fobian at 425-666-7037 or via email at kent@kentfobian.com. One need not be a PCO to seek these positions.

The committee has several candidates for consideration already. The Nominating Committee will present a four person slate for the Board positions at the first meeting in December to be voted on by newly elected PCOs. There can also be nominations from the floor for those who did not make the slate.

Next order of business is to discuss the Bylaws for the ICRP. There is committee focused on reviewing and updating the bylaws. They hope to have the revised Bylaws to the PCO email inboxes before the next Central Committee meeting. If you want to provide input a copy of the current Bylaws can be found here:

Microsoft Word - 20170311 - ICRP Bylaws.docx (https://www.islandcountygop.net/_files/ugd/0c4c1a_bedb3a7cbc8d40c3b6052c2011a62d50.pdf?index=true)

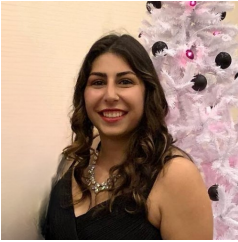

Send any suggestions for revisions to sandipete@comcast.net.

These two housekeeping items will likely take up the entirety of the reorganization meeting in December.

It will also be necessary to fill positions for the Standing Committees and any Ad Hoc committees that will focus on items related to party organization, fundraising, communication and elections. The Chair makes those appointments so who that person is will be vital to the success of the ICRP. Choose wisely and well.

With those selections completed, Bylaws updated and committees in place, it will time to focus on Turning Island County Red.

State Committee Report

Hi all,

Everyone needs to have eyes on the close of the current election so not a lot to report this month. I will share the email recently sent to the State Committee from Chairman Jim Walsh that shows what the WAGOP is doing to help PCOs

Hello State Committee,

The WAGOP is committed to each and every PCO having the same access to tools, resources, and materials from the WAGOP. So far, we have created the PCO Portal, the first shared access space for all Republican PCOs in Washington State. We have also created the largest and most comprehensive PCO contact database the WAGOP has ever had.

That being said, no system is perfect, and large projects take time and effort (from everyone) to make them successful. In May, we pulled all internal and public data into our database, giving us a list of all current and incoming PCOs. Out of that list, we were still missing 1,300+ emails and phone numbers statewide. In late June, we sent out an official letter by mail to all PCOs with missing contact information, asking them to contact the office to give us that information. We are now at 700+ missing contacts.

If any PCO has voiced concerns that they cannot access the materials offered by the WAGOP, we encourage them to contact ashley@wsrp.org to get into the database for relevant information and access to tools. You can also send in your full county contact list, and we can fill in our missing information with those. As always, please be patient as we add those new members into the system. It may take a couple of days before they are added, as all the email accounts here are being flooded with questions from voters that are trying to participate in this year's historic elections.

All Best,

Jim Walsh

Washington State Republican Party Chairman
